Investment strategy

Generate regular income while giving special attention to capital preservation in periods of rising yields and appreciation of the Swiss franc.

Investment philosophy and process

Provide sustainable asset management, generating superior performances versus the Swiss bond market through increased international diversification, without increasing risks thanks to dynamic risk management of interest rates, issuer categories and currencies. This dynamic risk management is provided by a multifactorial model (1875 MAP).

Investment policy

In September, government bond markets (-0.14%) continued their correction as a result of increased interest rate hike expectations in the United States and a more rapid normalization of monetary policies. Conversely, their emerging counterparts continued to progress (+1.25%). EUR-denominated assets made moderate progress, with Spanish bonds gaining (+0.79%) and Italy moving backwards in a counter-move by -0.26%. GBP securities fell sharply (-2.47%). US Treasury bills crumbled (-0.14%) and AUD-denominated securities depreciated by 0.78%. CHF (+0.23%), JPY (+0.02%) and CAD (+0.03%) loans consolidated. In terms of credit, we note a further increase in premiums resulting from the rising default risk in the banking sector triggered by the difficulties encountered by Deutsche Bank. The environment on the foreign exchange markets was characterized by a falling USD against currencies sensitive to commodity prices (AUD -1.86%, RUB -3.69%, NOK -4.03%) but also against the JPY (-1.79%) and to a lesser extent to the EUR (-0.61%). The Euro continued its upward trend vis-à-vis the GBP (+1.94%) and fell against the CHF (-0.46%).

The fund depreciated by 0.22% vs. 0.02% for its benchmark. This underperformance is mainly related to the underweighting on CHF and EUR bonds.

Despite the correction in the bond markets, they remain overvalued. Under the effect of the recovery in global nominal growth during the 4th quarter, yields continue to tighten. Their rise will however be mitigated by the continued surplus in production resources and the very gradual normalization of monetary policies. Bond investments should therefore be kept underweight and with a duration below that of the benchmark. Because of the extensive purchases of government debt by central banks, interest rate curves will continue to flatten, favouring long maturities and requiring the implementation of barbell strategies. Loans in AUD and to a lesser extent in CAD remain overweight due to the continued cyclical risks faced by their economies. The underexposure to JPY loans has been reduced following the decrease of inflationary expectations in Japan. Commitments in USD, EUR, GBP, CHF remain underweight for reasons linked to valuation, but also in light of the decrease in deflationary pressures. In terms of debtor categories, we now recommend overweighting corporate bonds, with a more moderate underweighting of US corporate bonds and a greater increase in overweighting for their European counterparts.

The exposure to the EUR against the CHF is increased, following the widening of interest rate differentials between the EUR and CHF, and in consideration of the financial overvaluation of the franc.

Investment objectives

Financial : outperform the benchmark over 2 years to provide excess return and yield complementary to the Swiss Bond Index (SBI).

Economic : optimally allocate capital by integrating ESG criteria for the selection of issuers.

Risk profile

Steady and asymmetrical distribution of returns through reduced market exposures during high-risk periods.
